the energy and ecological crisis we are now going through, but fundamentally because as human beings we can not keep on acting in such a thoughtless way, I write these notes, with the intention that we take more into consideration that whatever we do to improve the ways of energy consumption, will ease the human life preservation. His work is not wholly original, but it is interesting to see how it combines elements to produce an argument not dissimilar to those offered decades later Dear Carnap the same stew of influences.
